

Are you keen to build the skills and knowledge of your accommodation support staff in the area of supported decision making?

The My Right to Decide project provides training and resources to help build the decision making confidence of people with intellectual disability and their supporters.

Our training can assist support staff to:

- ✔ Understand more about supported decision making and rights
- ✔ Identify barriers to decision making and implement supports
- ✔ Advocate for greater choice and control for people with disability
- ✔ Support decision making of people with complex communication needs

My Right to Decide works with people with disability, their support workers and families.

If you're interested in participating in a My Right to Decide training for staff, please contact Cathy at cathy@cid.org.au or 1800 424 065.

➔ What is supported decision making?

We make many decisions every day. We often ask others for support to make decisions.

For many people with intellectual disability, decisions are made for them when in fact they have the right to make decisions with the right support.

➔ What is Council for Intellectual Disability (CID)?

CID is a disability rights organisation led by members with intellectual disability. CID has a very clear purpose: we want a community where all people with intellectual disability are valued. We work to build a community that protects rights, includes everyone and supports people well.

Find out more at www.cid.org.au

This project was funded under the Australian Government's Information Linkages and Capacity Building program.